

Outside engagement and professional conduct policy

Governance

BeZero

Employees need to conduct themselves in relations with individuals, companies and other entities outside of BeZero Carbon in a way that is consistent with the principles and values laid out in our Code of Conduct.

Employees may not engage in any outside employment or other activity that would create an actual or apparent conflict of interest with their employment at BeZero.

Any employees engaged in analytical activities as part of our Ratings process should be particularly sensitive to possible conflicts between their work at BeZero Carbon and any other activities or outside engagements.

Employees are expected to proactively raise any potential conflicts to the VP Ops / COO and seek clarification and approval. Any work for other employers, consultancy, memberships of Boards or other external engagements should be approved by the VP Ops / COO.

Employees should also familiarise themselves with our Conflict of Interest Policy, and for those employees engaged in analytical activities, with our Ratings Conflict of Interest Policy.
